

ALMA MATER STUDIORUM
UNIVERSITÀ DI BOLOGNA
DIPARTIMENTO DI STORIA CULTURE CIVILTÀ

URBANIZED LANDSCAPES IN EARLY SYRO-MESOPOTAMIA AND PREHISPANIC MESOAMERICA

International Colloquium

Supporting Institutions: Department of History and Cultures and Specialization School on Archaeological Heritage, with the patronage of the Institute for Higher Studies

Monday, 9 / Tuesday, 10 February 2015 - Aula Prodi of the Department of History and Cultures, Piazza San Giovanni in Monte 2, Bologna, Italy
(Live streaming www.orientlab.net/adams50)

9th February, h 14.30

Gary Feinman (Chicago)

The comparative investigation of early urbanized landscapes: an interdisciplinary reframing

David Wengrow (London)

Cities before the state in early Eurasia

Nicolò Marchetti (Bologna)

Conceptualizing urbanized landscapes in early Syro-Mesopotamia

Program

10th February, h 9.30

Davide Domenici (Bologna)

Beyond Dichotomies: Comparing Mesoamerican Urban Societies

Nikolai Grube (Bonn)

Low-population cities and invisible bureaucracies: Were Maya kingdoms states?

Norman Yoffee (Santa Fe)

"The Evolution of Urban Society" today: Robert Adams in and for a new century

Scholars and students are invited

Prof. Nicolò Marchetti

Director of the Specialization School on Archaeological Heritage
President of the Institute for Higher Studies

Prof. Giuseppe Sassatelli

Director of the Department of History and Cultures

Prof. Davide Domenici

Coordinator of the Section of anthropological, oriental and history of religions studies - DiSCi